WEATHER

There was six inches of snow on the ground last night, and a chance of more snow has been forecast for tonight. Today it will be partly cloudy and continued cold. High around 30, cloudy and not so cold tonight. Low about 25. Tomorrow, cloudy and snow. High 34. Probability of precipitation 20 per cent today, 30 per cent tonight, and 60 per cent tomorrow. Land winds are southerly at 10 to 15 mph around tonight. There is a slow warming trend until the first of next week. Mostly rain over the weekend, changing to snow flurries about the first of next week. Temperatures will be near normal throughout this week. Yesterday's 7 a.m. report: .10 precipitation, river level 6.1 and falling, high 28, low 20.

WARREN COUNTY

Thomas Conway yesterday received telephone confirmation from Harrisburg as the new chairman of the Warren County Democratic Committee. William Martin has voluntarily stepped down from the position to become first vice chairman.

Monday's Liberty st. fire had only one reported casualty. Fireman Tom Haines was listed in satisfactory condition at Warren General Hospital last night following treatment for smoke inhalation. Fire officials are continuing their investigation of the blaze at the Savoy Restaurant.

THE NATION

In his attempt to reduce government spending by enough to get Congress to pass a tax increase, President Johnson has ordered across-the-board reductions by most Federal agencies—rather than specific, selected cutbacks. The agencies have been ordered to cut personnel costs by 2 per cent and expenditures on "controllable" programs by 10 per cent. The reductions are expected to add up to about $4 billion, but that may not be enough to satisfy Congress.

By a vote of 89 to 2, the Senate passed a bill designed to protect consumers by assuring that all meat they buy will measure up to Federal standards of wholesomeness. The House had passed a less stringent bill.

The World Bank tardily confirmed yesterday that President Johnson had nominated Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to its presidency. Speculation mounted about the reasons for the move, but precise and reliable information was not available. The two men who knew the most, the President and McNamara, were not talking.

THE WORLD

President de Gaulle's provocative news conference Monday brought a strong reaction in Canada Tuesday. Prime Minister Lester Pearson called the French leader's call for Quebec's independence an "intolerable" meddling in Canadian affairs. "The future of Canada," he said, "will be decided in Canada by Canadians."

Prime Minister Harold Wilson committed Britain even more strongly to seek membership in the Common Market. "There are no present alternatives," he told the House of Commons. President de Gaulle had said that Britain's entry would break up the European community as it now exists.

The annual attempt to seat Communist China in the United Nations and expel Nationalist China was decisively defeated in the General Assembly yesterday. The decision came more easily than in recent years, apparently because of Peking's internal turmoil and external subversion.

SPORTS

Warren outscored Youngsville by 13 points in the third quarter to break open a close ballgame and coasted to a 73-55 victory over the Eagles in the Dragons' opener last night. Gary Wood of the Eagles took game-high honors with 16 points and Dan Krumm led the Dragons with 14. Page 9.

UCLA's Gary Beban won the Heisman Trophy as college football's outstanding player yesterday. O. J. Simpson of Southern Cal was runner-up for the honor. Purdue's Leroy Keyes came in third and Larry Csonka of Syracuse placed fourth. Page 3.

USC was named the national major college grid champion in the final AP poll of the season. Penn State made its first and only appearance on the Top Ten list, finishing in tenth place. Rose Bowl-bound Indiana closed out a surprising fourth behind the Trojans, Tennessee and Oklahoma. Page 8.

Three major trades were made at yesterday's baseball meetings in Mexico City. The Minnesota Twins traded shortstop Zoilo Versalles and pitcher Jim "Mudcat" Grant to the Los Angeles Dodgers for catcher John Roseboro and pitchers Ron Perranoski and Bob Miller. Pittsburgh sent pitcher Dennis Ribant to the Detroit Tigers for hurler Dave Wickersham and Cleveland picked up veteran knuckleballer Eddie Fisher from Baltimore for John O'Donoghue. Page 6.

DELIVERS BROADSIDE ATTACK ON DeGAULLE

Following an address at Guildhall in London Monday, after he had been presented with the Freedom of the City of London, Prime Minister Lester Pearson of Canada delivered a broad-side attack on French President de Gaulle's foreign policy. Yesterday he accused de Gaulle of "intolerable" meddling in Canada's domestic problems.

Pearson Accuses DeGaulle Of "Intolerable" Meddling

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
OTTAWA — Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson yesterday accused President de Gaulle of France of "intolerable" meddling in Canada's domestic problems.

"The future of Canada," Pearson declared in a statement to an aroused House of Commons, "will be decided in Canada by Canadians."

Members on both the government and opposition sides of the House had thumped their desks in approval of the liberal party leader's rebuttal today of the French president.

General de Gaulle's advocacy of sovereignty and independence for Quebec would undoubtedly stir "discord in Canada," Pearson said. He urged a "restrained" reaction in the interest of Canadian unity, and did not indicate what the Canadian government might do about the French president's intervention.

It was learned that the Prime Minister was under pressure from some political quarters to sever diplomatic relations with France. But there was no hint of this in the Prime Minister's statement drafted at a cabinet meeting yesterday. He said Canada still felt it had "a special relationship with France, which is the motherland of so many of her citizens."

After the commons session, Pearson said the government planned "no further action" over the latest de Gaulle incident and denied any plans to withdraw Canada's envoy to Paris.

On Monday in Paris de Gaulle echoed the call of "Vivre Le Quebec Libre" (Long Live Free Quebec) he had sounded on a visit to Quebec last July. The French leader predicted that the Province eventually would be elevated "to the rank of a sovereign" state and would be "master of its national existence like other nations throughout the world."

Reacting to this, Pearson said, "It is intolerable that a head of a foreign state or government should recommend a course of political or constitutional action which would destroy Canadian confederation and the unity of the Canadian state."

Pearson drew the immediate support of opposition leaders. Robert Stanfield, leader of the conservative party, said, "All Canadians would resent the statement of President de Gaulle."

Cause of Savoy Fire Still Being Investigated

Fireman Tom Haines was reported in satisfactory condition at Warren General Hospital last night following treatment for smoke inhalation.

Haines, driver for the Warren Fire Department's number two engine, was the only reported casualty from Monday's Liberty st. fire which exploded in the kitchen of Savoy Restaurant and spread to Reserve Loan Co. and Morrison's.

The three businesses were closed yesterday in the first full week of Warren's official Christmas shopping season. Fire officials are currently investigating the cause of the blaze, and the amount of damage it did to the three establishments, all located in the same building in the downtown shopping center.

The fire reportedly started on a greasy fan and spread upward through the ductwork and between the ceiling of the restaurant and the floor of Reserve Loan above.

Firemen yesterday said that both Reserve Loan and Morrison's did suffer some fire damage. Earlier it was reported that they had received only smoke and water damage.

The fire did not break out through the roof of the building, but firemen were forced to chop through the roof to get at the blaze on the second floor of the two-story office.

Kendall Morrison, owner of the Morrison's clothing store, reportedly was at his store last night but was unavailable for comment.

Anthony Fanos, owner of the Savoy Restaurant, said last night that repair work on the restaurant will begin as soon as lights can be put in. He said that there was "quite a bit" of damage done. The kitchen will need new equipment.

LBJ Orders $4 Billion Cut in Govt. Spending

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — President Johnson has ordered across-the-board reductions in the spending of most government agencies—rather than cutbacks in specific, selected programs—in his attempt to reduce government spending to get Congress to pass his tax increase bill.

Orders have gone out to the agencies to cut their personnel costs by 2 per cent and their expenditures on "controllable" programs by 10 per cent, it was learned yesterday.

Some exceptions will be permitted, but the agencies will be required to prove the need for them. Some of the programs of assistance to the poor were said to be in this category.

The expenditure reductions are expected to add up to about $4 billion. This is the amount of expenditure reduction in the current fiscal year that administration officials promised key members of Congress last week in return for resumption of Congressional consideration of Johnson's proposed 10 per cent tax increase.

No Agreement Is Reached In Cyprus Crisis

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — An urgent Greek Cabinet meeting on the Cyprus crisis failed last night to produce agreement to Turkish demands. Western alliance mediators immediately decided on new visits to Ankara, Turkey, and to Cyprus to deal with points of difference.

Foreign Minister Panayiotis Pipinellis emerged from the Athens talks over Turkey's demands and said: "There has been no approval yet."

This came after a long day and night of consultations from which the government earlier had promised a decision one way or the other, as a spokesman put it, for peace or possible war.

The foreign minister told newsmen, "No agreement has been reached with the Turks." He said he saw the situation as "delicate and dangerous."

Asked if he thought war possible, Pipinellis appeared thoughtful and replied: "Yes, it is possible. It is less of a possibility now."

He conferred with White House envoy Cyrus R. Vance, who thereupon made plans to fly to Nicosia, the Cypriot capital, to talk with President Archbishop Makarios about some of the details involved in the main dispute about evacuation of Greek troops.

Pipinellis also met again with Manlio Brosio, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Greece and Turkey are NATO members. As a consequence of that conference, Brosio decided to fly back to Ankara.

As the Greek Cabinet met earlier in the day more than a dozen Turkish warships maneuvered off the north coast of Cyprus for two hours, then returned to their bases. A Turkish source said it was a routine naval exercise, but it was widely regarded as another show of force to increase pressure on the Greeks.

The new steps by Vance and Brosio clearly indicated that the stumbling blocks in the controversy involved details—undoubtedly the timing and manner of any backdown on either side—which needed very delicate handling.

Britain's Course Clear Despite Gen. DeGaulle

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
LONDON — Prime Minister Wilson made clear yesterday that Britain will keep her course set for the Common Market despite the latest barrage of opposition from President de Gaulle.

"There are no present alternatives," Wilson told the House of Commons. His comments added up to his strongest commitment so far Britain's joining the European economic community or Common Market.

In other statements over the last year Wilson has spoken of "alternatives" to the market. Today he said that they might exist only "in the future—they are not there now."

Several members of Parliament, mainly from the left wing of the labor party, asked the Prime Minister whether he would not now drop the application to the European economic community. He replied, "no sir."

"The decision to make application," he said, was not "meant to be a fair-weather or short-run decision. I believe it would be wrong to change direction on this issue because of any statements made yesterday."

At his news conference in Paris the French President brutally rejected the thought of the community's even beginning negotiations with Britain. He said Britain's entry would break up the community as it now exists.

Speculation on McNamara Move Continues to Grow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said yesterday Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's departure from the Cabinet would mean no change in the conduct of the Vietnam war.

Red China Refused Seat For 18th Time by UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Communist China lost ground slightly yesterday when the U.N. General Assembly brushed aside for the 18th year bids to seat the Peking regime and expel Nationalist China from the world organization.

The vote was 45 in favor of and 58 against with 17 abstaining. This represented a net shift of only one vote as compared with 1966, but it was significant in that it continued a trend away from the tie vote registered in 1965.

The outcome of the six-day China debate left the Peking government far from a U. N. seat since the United States had pushed through in advance a resolution asserting that this was an "important question" which meant that a two-thirds majority was required. As it turned out the resolution was unnecessary. The vote left Peking considerably short of even a simple majority. The vote last year was 46 in favor of seating the Chinese Communists, 57 against and 17 abstaining. The closest vote was in 1965 when the assembly balloted to a 47-47 tie with 20 abstaining.

As usual the United States led the opposition to admitting the Chinese Communists. It was acknowledged generally, however, that the major factors in the poor showing of Peking lay in its ideological split with Moscow and its internal political struggle.

The intensity of the Peking-Moscow rift was reflected in the lukewarm presentation of the Chinese Communist case by the Soviet bloc. The deputy foreign minister of the Soviet Union, Vasily V. Kuznetsov, spoke only nine minutes on behalf of Peking.

President Johnson over bombing policy.

However, it still withheld any public confirmation or denial of what has become an open secret—that McNamara probably will become president of the 106-member World Bank after a record four as secretary of defense.

Pentagon sources indicated there would be no formal announcement until the directors of the World Bank have voted on McNamara's selection for the new post.

This could come as early as today.

There was a wall of silence at both the White House and the Pentagon on a successor for McNamara as head of the Defense Department, which has ruled with a firm hand for nearly seven years.

Some observers speculated Johnson might want to tap a Republican as defense secretary, with the 1968 presidential campaign ahead and the war in Vietnam looming as perhaps the most important issue.

Others speculated that Johnson might tap a leading industrialist in the mold of the management-minded McNamara.

Administration sources indicated no decision has been made on a successor yet. Among those mentioned as possibilities are:

—Charles B. (Tex) Thornton, board chairman of Litton Industries, Inc. Thornton, of Los Angeles, has been a close friend of McNamara's at least as far back as World War II when they served in the Air Force together.

—Cyrus R. Bance, presidential troubleshooter in Cyprus and previously special Johnson representative in the Dominican Republic during the 1965 crisis there.

—Dr. Harold Brown, 40-year-old physicist, now secretary of the Air Force and formerly chief of defense research and engineering.

—Gov. John Connally of Texas, former secretary of the Navy under President John F. Kennedy and an old political ally of Johnson's. Connally, who is not seeking re-election as governor, said Monday night "there is not a word of truth" to reports that he would become the next secretary of defense.

White House press secretary George Christian was asked at his midday briefing whether McNamara's departure from the Pentagon would mean any change in the conduct of the war in Vietnam.

"No," Christian replied. "I don't know of any change in the conduct of the war for any reason."

Oppose Rezoning

The majority of residents attending a public hearing in Akeley last night reportedly were "very much opposed" to rezoning to permit the Lawson Pallet Factory to expand into a residential area.

The Warren County Planning Commission held the hearing at the Akeley Grange to poll the feelings of the residents. Approximately 30 to 40 people attended, according to county planner Robert R. Peterson.

Accident Victim Is Satisfactory

Mrs. Robert (Betty) Knupp, 209 Sixth st., is in satisfactory condition at Warren General Hospital following an automobile accident near the Glenn Restaurant in Pleasant Twp. yesterday afternoon.

Her two sons, Michael, 16, and David, 4, also occupants of the car, were treated and released from the hospital.

Mrs. Knupp, an employee of the TM & O, was admitted and treated for multiple lacerations of the head. Michael was treated for a fractured jawbone.

Cyprus

cate negotiations to remove. The envoys travelling from Athens to Ankara and back for four days produced some kind of a package which resulted in the Greek government's efforts to find acceptance.

As Premier Constantine Kollas, Foreign Minister Panayiotis Pipinelis and leaders of Greece's military government conferred, three special international envoys stood by in Athens, their attempts to mediate peace apparently in the balance.

The three—Cyrus R. Vance, President Johnson's representative; Manlio Brosio, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization; and Jose Rolz-Bennett, undersecretary-general of the United Nations—had shuttled between Athens and Ankara for four days.

Informed sources had said earlier a settlement of the crisis appeared near and Greek Cypriot President Makarios had said, "There will be no war."

One Turkish official said the remaining issues involved largely "timing and face-saving" but cautioned against underestimating their importance.

Hostility between Cyprus' divided populations—about four-fifths Greek Orthodox and one-fifth Turkish Moslems—has been a persistent source of friction between Greece and Turkey. The latest crisis developed from fighting two weeks ago in which 25 Turkish Cypriots and two Greek Cypriots were killed.

Turkey air force jets flew over Cyprus yesterday for the 11th straight day and appeared low over Nicosia, the capital, for the first time.

Conway Okayed Head of Local Democrats

Thomas Conway said yesterday that Harrisburg approval of his becoming the new chairman of the Warren County Democratic Committee is in the mail.

William Martin has voluntarily stepped down from the position to become first vice chairman.

Conway said that he talked with Thomas Minehart, chairman of the Democratic State Commission, who notified him of the confirmation.

The changes in the county party were discussed and acted upon at a meeting Nov. 12. Conway said, that there will be certain changes in both procedures and committees in the county party. The next meeting will be during the second week of December.

in the administration and the military establishment on those advocating intensification of the Vietnam war expressed regret at his impending resignation.

On the other hand, many who had opposed his policies and decisions—particularly in the Armed Services committees—either remained silent today or paid their respects to his unremitting labor for nearly seven years in one of the toughest jobs in government.

Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Senate Democratic leader, who has always been a strong defender of McNamara, told reporters:

"I hope his successor will be somewhere nearly as strong as he has been, will continue to exercise civilian control as he (the Secretary of Defense) is mandated to do under the constitution. And I hope McNamara's leaving will not mean in the months ahead further escalation of the bombing in North Vietnam or of the war into other areas."

Everett McKinley Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate Republican leader, said, when asked if he regarded McNamara as a good Secretary of Defense:

"Yes, I do. He had convictions. He had an excellent brain, and he didn't have to rely on aides in committee hearings. Don't think McNamara didn't know the score. He did."

Meat Inspection Bill Is Approved by Senate

(c) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON—The Senate passed yesterday a bill designed to protect consumers by assuring that all meat they buy will measure up to federal standards of wholesomeness.

The roll-call vote was 89 to 2. Georgia's two Democratic senators, Richard B. Russell and Herman E. Talmadge, were the only dissenters.

Action on the controversial measure now moves to the House, which has passed a less stringent bill to deal with the problem of meat that is produced and sold wholly within a state's borders. Federal meat inspection law covers the 85 per cent of the country's meat supply that moves in interstate commerce, but the remaining 15 per cent of fresh meat, as well as 25 per cent of processed meat, is not subject to federal standards.

Rep. W.R. Poague, D-Texas, who is chairman of the House agriculture committee, predicted that the Senate version would be passed by the House. He denounced the Senate bill, asserting that state authorities "are not going to help make it work" because "a lot of people feel that they've been doublecrossed."

The House committee, he said, worked for six months with the meat industry, state commissioners of agriculture and others to get a consensus. "Now it has been shot to hell," he asserted.

If the states cannot reform their laws to meet Federal meat inspection standards, he added, "they'll turn it all over to the Federal government and then the producer will get less or the consumer will pay more" to finance inspection.

The House bill provides for a Federal-State cost-sharing program to enable the states to upgrade their meat inspection services. States could get as much as 50 per cent of the cost of establishing adequate inspection procedures.

The Senate retained the Federal-State cost sharing provision, but tightened the measure by requiring states within two years to provide inspection that meets Federal standards or face a federal take-over. Governors could waive the time limit and let the department of agriculture move immediately.

The 'In' Thing

Sophistication is considered to be the "in" thing today.

It is considered to be the essential need of the person who aspires to become a member of jet-age society, the implement that will cleanly cut the umbilical cord connecting one with the corny past.

So what is this miraculous medium that performs such an astounding transformation? This we must ask.

Is it the quality of character that allows us to consider the person as naive who still believes in the virtues of such things as honesty and personal integrity?

Is it an anesthetic that relieves the pain as we yield to social pressures demanding that we adopt a policy of follow-the-leader yes-man-ship, never questioning what is presented to us as "popular thinking."

Is it the crutch on which we can lean as we watch our elected officials delegate the powers we have

Mr. Lindsay had contracted to do a piece for a national magazine, something on the order of "Whither the Republican Party?" The beginning sentence of the Lindsay draft was:

Buckley

"Although he has the timing of a professional actor," writes Mr. Reeves, "Mr. Lindsay's spontaneous wit is often ineffective and can sometimes be embarrassingly crude. The man who writes the Mayor's public jokes and almost all of his speeches is James R. Carberry, a 36-year-old former newspaperman. Mr. Carberry who left the Washington Post to publish an up-state weekly before joining Mr. Lindsay in 1965, has one of the toughest speechwriting jobs in the nation." You can say that again.

And then too Mr. Lindsay, according to this report, does not travel about without his own television man, responsible among other things for the Mayor's cosmetics. "Mr. Garth, a television producer who works without salary," why? "was on hand to supervise makeup men and technicians before Mr. Lindsay appeared on local television" in Los Angeles. He "usually huddled with Mr. Lindsay just before any on-camera appearance."

Well, as they say, politics is certainly the art of the possible. The possible being the emergence of Mr. John Lindsay, who is a good sort but hardly what the youth of the nation have in mind, which is a Carberry-Garth creation, as a man of eloquence and wit.

Recently, a worldly young editor of Time Magazine was shocked to learn from a former fellow student at graduate school that he could not join him for a weekend, because he had to write a book review for John Lindsay. The young editor knew, as all of us know, that ghosts have been with us for many years. And indeed we should all be grateful to the profession, else we would be hearing speeches that begin with the statement that politics is the art of the possible. But to assign to a ghost a review of a book which one is not even going to read—well, that is a kind of a job-automation which shocks even worldly young editors of Time Magazine.

Is there a line to be drawn, somewhere? As a general rule, good writers (e.g. Adlai Stevenson) don't make good politicians, and good politicians (e.g. John F. Kennedy) don't make good writers. And therefore good writers should help politicians from time to time, even as good politicians sometimes help good writers by, e.g., pulling their books out of their pockets in front of teevee. But there is something spooky about so total an amalgamation as for instance Mr. Lindsay seems to be perfecting. They say that T.V. is a useful democratic instrument because it reveals the true character of a man to the voters. One wonders whether that in fact is true, under the developing circumstances. Perhaps the Federal Communications Commission should take a role here? After every appearance of Mr. Lindsay on T.V., the credit lines. "Mr. Lindsay's Speech by David Carberry. Mr. Lindsay's Makeup by David Garth. Mr. Lindsay's Ad Libs by Harry O'Donnell." Now there is a proposal for lodging more power with the Federal government which Mr. Lindsay could quite consistently support, if Mr. Carberry will permit him.

SYLVIA PORTER

Christmas Gyp

Let's say that you are approached in your office building by a salesman offering bottles of expensive internationally-known perfumes at prices below those charged in retail stores. Should you buy such a bottle as a Christmas present for your wife?

Porter

Or let's say your child receives, unsolicited, a big batch of Christmas cards which he can sell to earn gift money—and that you the parent later receive a bill for the cards which are still stashed away in the child's toy chest. Are you obliged to pay the bill?

The answer to both of these questions is NO. These are two examples of the wide variety of gyps, rackets and cross misrepresentations which inevitably will appear all over the U.S. as the Christmas spending spree gets under way.

To help you spot this year's Christmas gyps, here is a list of the hardest ones, with tips on how to avoid each, from the National Better Business Bureau and the Metropolitan New York BBB:

1) Perfume rackets. In some cases, the gypster will rebottle expensive name-brand cologne or toilet water in pursesize flacons. You are led to believe that the flacons contain genuine any unordered merchandise. However, if you do not return it, or if you open it by mistake, do not use it. Simply set it aside for what postal authorities term a "reasonable length of time." Then throw it away.

3) Mail order misrepresentations. Such items as toys, watches and jewelry are advertised in illustrated catalogs at a fraction of ordinary retail prices. When you receive them they turn out to be entirely different from what you thought you would receive. A large doll house, for example, may be merely a paper cutout.

The best way to avoid this gyp is: Deal only with known mail order firms. If you don't know the reputation of the firm whose catalog you have received ask the Better Business Bureau about it.

4) "Courtesy cards." These usually come to you through the mail and they supposedly allow you to buy gifts at the specified store at a big discount. But the discounts may be based on fictitious prices, and you get no bargains at all.

Your best rule here is: Compare prices of goods, with or without "discounts," before you buy.

Your basic rule on all unordered merchandise is: Return it to your post office marked "refused."

You are under no obligation to accept or pay for, or even go to the trouble of returning,

MASON DENISON Different Case Here

Pennsylvania News Service
HARRISBURG—When Pennsylvania's first constitutional convention in nearly a century convenes day after tomorrow, its road to success will not be strewn with the host of roadblocks and pitfalls that befell a similar venture in New York State earlier this month.

The fact that voters of the Empire State slapped down the constitutional revision issue by a 2 to 1 vote does not by any stretch of the imagination prefigure a similar fate for the upcoming vote in this state.

This is not to say it couldn't happen; it could very well indeed. The point to be made however is that chances of it happening when the issue finally goes to the Pennsylvania electorate next year are far more remote than in the case of New York.

Just why this is the case, why Pennsylvania should be any different, generally does not seem to be too well understood.

In the first place, when New Yorkers went about their constitutional chore, their effort (costing taxpayers around $14 million, as compared with less than $2 million projected for Pennsylvania) centered around rewriting the entire New York State Constitution.

This alone is regarded as sufficient grounds to kill off any chance of success. It did.

The all-or-nothing approach used in New York State, providing no latitude whatsoever in electorate selection of an endless list of controversial points, will not be used in Pennsylvania when the issue is presented for voter approval (or rejection) next year.

Rather than covering the entire State Constitution, Pennsylvania's convention is limited to four specific phases of the constitution.

These four phases of course are: the judiciary, legislative apportionment, taxation and state finance, and local government.

The constitutional rewriting convention therefore is called a "limited constitutional convention" as opposed to a flat and all-out, all-or-nothing constitutional convention as in the case of New York State.

Regarded as one of the big keys to possible success in this state is the fact that while it is a limited convention, each issue will be decided by the voters of the state separately.

In other words it will not be a question of your popping into the voting booth next year to pull a single lever to indicate your approval or disapproval of the changes that will be recommended by the convention.

By law, in the case of Pennsylvania, it is required that each question for voter approval be stated separately, with a minimum of at least four questions—covering the four basic subjects spelled out for the convention.

There may be more than four questions on the ballot—depending of course upon what the convention finally decides, from the standpoint of issues, to place before the voting public.

In other words, on the subject of local government for example, the convention may deem it advisable to break down this subject into two, four, six, eight (or any number) of specific points, with voter approval required on each point.

Thus in the final analysis, the possibility of complete and absolute defeat of Pennsylvania's constitutional revision efforts hardly seems probable (although where voting is required, anything can and oftentimes does happen).

For Pennsylvania it will not be a question of all or nothing. Rather it is expected there will be a number of questions on which voters will be asked to give their preference, but by law there will be at least four, this in itself at least assuring no all-or-nothing debacle.

Consumers Want Lowdown

WASHINGTON—Housewives who have to pay high interest rates when they buy washing machines or refrigerators didn't know about it, but there was an interesting contrast last week between the Presidential and the Congressional tactics on protecting the consumer.

While LBJ was demanding more protection for housewives who buy meat, for people who buy on the installment plan, and for families who live alongside corroding pipelines, the House Banking and Currency Committee was undercutting the consumer in regard to one important phase of LBJ's program—truth-in-lending.

For over five years E. Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., battled for the right of buyers to know what interest they are paying; this year the bill passed the Senate. When it reached the House it was drastically weakened behind the closed doors of the House Banking and Currency Committee last week by exempting department stores, other retail establishments, mail order catalog companies, and the thriving business in credit cards, all of which use "revolving credit."

"Revolving credits" charge interest at the rate of 18 per cent yearly and the average housewife who buys a washing machine or the man who uses a credit card to pay for his dinner doesn't realize he's paying at the rate of 1.5 per cent monthly.

Mrs. Leonor Sullivan, D-Mo., however, had proposed that department stores and others using revolving credit should disclose the interest rates they charge. Unlike Rep. Catherine May, R-Wash., Mrs. Sullivan has been a tough, unrelenting crusader for consumers.

On this crucial vote, however, she lost—17 to 14. All but one Republican, Rep. Seymour Halpern, N.Y., lined up against her, as did five Democrats. Two of the Democrats were not surprising: Dixiecrats Robert Stephens, Ga., and Tom Gettys, S.C. But three of the Democratic votes were cast by Liberals. Their constituents back home don't know that Richard Hanna, Orange County, Calif., Tom Rees, Los Angeles, Calif., and Frank Annunzio, Chicago all voted against the consumer.

The Republicans who voted against the consumer in the closed-door session were: William Widnall, N.J., and Paul Fino, N.Y., Florence Dwyer, N.J., Bill Brock, Tenn., Del Clawson, Calif., Albert Johnson and Lawrence Williams, Pa., William Stanton, Ohio, Chester Mize, Kan., Sherman Lloyd, Utah, Ben Blackburn, Ga. and Garry Brown, Mich.

Chief Republican opponent of full disclosure of interest rates was Paul Fino, the little Italian-American from Manhattan who has also stymied the Export-Import Bank by a hamstringing amendment. Fino is the great champion of legal lotteries which victimize poorer people, yet votes against poorer consumers who have to use installment buying.

Behind closed doors, Fino pretended to be just the opposite. But Mrs. Sullivan argued that revolving credit now constitutes about 25 per cent of all consumer credit. If it wasn't policed legislatively, she cautioned, many stores not now using it—such as jewelry, furniture and appliance retailers, most of which use contract credit—might switch over to revolving credit. "In other words, Congress would be giving such establishments a loophole to avoid disclosing full details of the interest they charge the public on financing accounts," she said.

Committee Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., agreed.

"The President is terribly interested in this question," he said. "He has been talking a lot about it recently. He doesn't want just any bill. So let's give him a good bill."

Patman referred to the fact that President Johnson has now become the most vigorous champion of the consumer of any president to occupy the White House since his mentor, Franklin Roosevelt, possibly more so.

JIM BISHOP

Not Ready for Gleason

For three years I have been hustling to play a round of golf with Jackie Gleason, but I'm not ready yet. A couple of weeks ago, I met him at a bash tossed by Marge and Irving Cowan, and he got to his feet in sections, beaming over a red carnation and a jacket that gave the impression he had shot a couch, and he murmured: "Well, Pal. When do we get to that round of golf?"

I pretended that there was too much noise for me to hear the question. The Greatest is a good golfer. I can't fire a basketball from a howitzer past the lady's tee, "It's a great party," I yelled. "Get a load of Janet Leigh on the dance floor in a silver mini-skirt doing a Charleston with Doctor Louis Bennett." Gleason said "Hah!" and sat all over his pants. It was a wild party. There was a man with an earring and another with a pair of long beads.

Bishop

Girls in bikinis stood like statues on tables and others in ballet skirts arched their arms in the four corners of the dance floor. It was all in honor of Sheila MacRae being married today, and for an encore, the Cowans wanted to set fire to the hotel.

Still, I must get to Gleason with a set of clubs. The following morning I went out to practice on the Diplomat course. The sun was sharp and warm, and the rain didn't start until I got a deuce on the par three fourth. Then it came down like it had no other place to go.

Most of the nut golfers stand under trees, where electrocution is free. We stood in the doorway of a men's room. The wind was a fury and the rain slanted in twisting gray veils. Leaves spun from the trees like playing cards flipped into a derby hat.

One madman on the seventh was 20 feet off the green, swinging so that he could see, his hands shining with water, and he yelled above the storm to his buddy: "Hold the pin." All of us broke down and a big contractor standing behind me said: "He's not so bad. I saw a guy make a hole in one and I ran up to him with my hand out stretched and he almost broke my fingers with a six iron. Seems he had fired his first two shots into a lake and was hitting five."

"Well, I had a hole in one once, on the Diplomat eighth, and someone at the country club phoned it into Jim Dooley and he put it on the sports broadcast that night. 'This afternoon on the Diplomat Eighth,' he intoned, 'Jim Bishop, well-known writer, scored a hole-in-one, shooting left-handed, in sneakers, and hitting a range ball.'"

The rain stopped for 15 seconds, and everyone ran out of the men's room as though it was about to blow up. Don Cuddy and I were on the fifth green, and I used my new Flame Putter. This is a gadget that has a cigarette lighter built into the head. It costs $29.50, and I ordered the little kids to give it to me as a bonus for coming home on time.

I sunk the putt and the rain started again. Cuddy is now inventing a putter with a rain slicker in the head and two penicillin pills. We raced back to the clubhouse and I told him Jim Mahoney's story about Roberto Di Vincenzo, the tough Argentine golfer. You don't hear much about this man, and he may not be the world's greatest, but he is all man all the way.

Not long ago, he surprised everybody by winning a tournament and they gave him a check on the 18th green. He flashed a smile for the flash bulbs and walked alone to the clubhouse. In back, where his car was parked, a sad-eyed young lady walked up to him. "It's a big day for you," she said, "but I have a baby with an incurable disease. It's of the blood and the doctors say she must die. You play golf as she tries to breathe." Di Vincenzo paused. In slow English, he said: "May I slow your little girl?" The woman's face froze. He took out a pen and endorsed his winning check and pressed it in her hand.

"Make some good days for the baby," he said, and trudged into the locker room. He accepted all the congratulatory handshakes soberly, and said nothing. A week later, he was having lunch in a country club when a PGA official approached. "Some of the boys in the parking lot told me you met a young woman after you won that tournament," he said. Di Vincenzo nodded. "Well," the official said, "I have news for you. She's a phony. She has no sick baby. She's not even married. She deceived you, my friend."

The golfer looked up. "You mean that there is no baby who is dying without hope?" he said. The PGA man said: "Right." Di Vincenzo grinned. "That's the best news I've heard all week," he said. . .

JAMES RESTON Why McNamara? And Now?

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON—There are two main questions about President Johnson's new appointee to the presidency of the World Bank: why McNamara and why now?

The answer to the first is fairly easy. McNamara wanted it. He is qualified to do it. And despite his reputation as a mechanical computer, he is much more interested in removing the causes of wars than in waging and directing wars. Read his Montreal speech, which identifies poverty as the root of war, and the point is clear.

Moreover, McNamara was at the top of the list of candidates for the presidency of the Ford Foundation in 1965, though opposed by some influential members, but the President fell ill at that time and McNamara asked John J. McCloy to take his name off the list. Accordingly, the Secretary of Defense had a call on the President for the bank job since the President had told him on several occasions that he could have almost any job he wanted.

There is a partial answer to the timing question, but only partial. McNamara was George Woods' candidate. Woods talked to his two predecessors in the World Bank presidency, Eugene Black and the same John J. McCloy. They agreed with Woods that McNamara would be the best candidate, but while Woods pressed the administration for a nominee, nothing happened for sixteen months.

Finally, the board of the World Bank asked Woods to stay on for a year beyond his regular five-year term that expires on Dec. 31, 1967, and pressed the administration for a decision by October 31 last. That date passed without a decision. Meanwhile, Woods had talked to McNamara and urged him to consider the job and talk to the President about it. Apparently McNamara did so in general terms over the Armistice Day weekend when he and the President made a long flight to the Pacific coast and back.

Two points are interesting here. First, the President's decision to appoint McNamara was made a week ago Monday and passed on to the bank a week ago last Thursday, but McNamara did not know about the actual nomination by the President until after it was made. And second, despite the pressure from the bank for a "nominee" or as some members of the bank board preferred, a "choice of nominees," only the McNamara name was put forward and even then the President was not obliged to put forward any name at that time.

So the timing answer is inconclusive. The President could have waited until after the election if he liked. He did not respond to the bank's appeals for over a year, and then suddenly did so. The speculation here—it is no more than that—is that the opposition to McNamara within the Joint Chiefs of Staff for "interfering" as they put it, with the conduct of the war had built up to the point where there was at least a fear within the administration that the President might be confronted with the resignation of two or three of his top military advisers.

Was this discussed between Gen. Westmoreland and the Joint Chiefs during Westmoreland's recent visit in Washington? Was the danger of resignations passed on to the President by somebody on the Armed Services Committee of the Congress? We do not know the answers to these questions, but they are the subject of lively conversation here, and the cause of considerable anxiety among those in Washington who regard McNamara as a restraining influence on the generals and politicians who want to escalate the war.

In any event, two or three facts are fairly obvious. The President could have avoided the whole issue for a year. McNamara did not resign or refuse to go on. He is tired but not so tired that he has to be relieved, and in any event, will undoubtedly stay on at the Pentagon for a while, even if he accepts the job when it is offered to him later this week.

Notice has been given by the President, however, that he is looking for a new Secretary of Defense. He has insisted—even to McNamara, according to one source—that he has no success in mind and wants McNamara's help in choosing one. Thus, the anti-McNamara faction gets something and McNamara does too.

This is, at least, a novel procedure. The hawks are pleased with it and the doves depressed. McNamara is going but nobody knows when, to be replaced by somebody, nobody knows whom. This way everybody gets something but not quite what he wanted: McNamara is on his way out, but not quite, and will still have his hand on the brake. Nobody knows how firmly or for how long.

Legislators Feel They Can Avoid Collision Course

HARRISBURG (AP) — Despite the fact the General Assembly and the Constitutional Convention appear headed on a collision course, officials of both bodies are confident a serious conflict over space can be avoided.

It is now clear that a sine die adjournment of the legislature by Friday, when the convention opens in the state House of Representatives chamber, is almost certainly out of the question.

However, Lt. Gov. Raymond J. Broderick, chairman of the convention's preparatory committee and presiding officer of the Senate, commented when queried:

"We the legislative leaders on the committee have gone over the schedule for the first two weeks of the convention and we feel the schedule can be met. We have no alternative plans in the works."

The legislation setting up the convention clearly states:

"The convention shall convene in the hall of the House of Representatives . . . on Dec. 1, 1967, at 12 noon."

State Universities Ask No Appropriation Cuts

HARRISBURG (AP) — The president of five state universities appealed to Gov. Shafer yesterday not to cut their scheduled appropriations.

According to reports, such temporary cuts have been discussed in the current tax negotiations between Shafer and the four legislative floor leaders.

"Failure to appropriate the scheduled funds for our five universities will have disastrous effects on higher education in Pennsylvania," the school heads said in a joint telegram.

"It will cause us to lose faculty, postpone educational programs, possibly close facilities and will force us to adopt massive tuition increases which students and their parents may not be in a position to pay."

The institutions and their stated appropriations are: Pennsylvania State University, $48 million; the University of Pittsburgh, $24 million; Temple University, $27 million; the University of Pennsylvania, $11 million and Drexel Institute, $2 million.

Glass Houses Are Not for Some

(C) N.Y. Times News Service NEW YORK — Some people who live in glass apartments apparently should't.

The reason, according to psychiatrists and urban living specialists, is that those floor-to-ceiling glass walls in some apartment buildings are causing a growing number of tenants to develop dizziness, a fear of being watched — and an aversion to light that has been dubbed "the light syndrome."

As a result, many of the light-shy tenants have moved their furniture away from their windows. Others have forsaken their panoramic views altogether and retreated behind heavy draperies. Still others have moved to darker apartments.

"Living behind glass walls raises a whole new series of problems," said James Marston Fitch, professor of architecture at Columbia University, whose specialty is environmental design.

"Tenants who have never lived that way before often develop vertigo when the glass goes all the way to the floor," he said.

"Two other big problems are glare and heat. And since the heat is radiant heat, it's not directly affected by cooling."

"The effects," he added, "can be very stressful."

Dr. Jules Masserman, chairman of the psychiatry department at the Northwestern University Medical School, told of several patients who had complained that life in their glass-walled apartments made them feel as if they were living in anthills that were constantly under observation by neighbors.

Several psychiatrists interviewed about "the light syndrome" said the dazzling sunlight in glass-walled apartments had caused some tenants to develop photophobia, or a fear of light.

This condition often went away, the psychiatrists said, after the affected tenants moved to darker apartments.

Dr. Emanuel Schwartz, dean of training at the Postgraduate Center for Mental Health, said too much light was as bad for a person as too much food, too much drink, or too much education.

Three Trades Announced From Baseball Meetings

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
MEXICO CITY (AP) — A flurry of trades spiced up the baseball meetings last night with three swaps being announced within minutes of each other.

In the biggest deal, Los Angeles filled its gap at shortstop by acquiring Zoilo Versalles from the Minnesota Twins. Right-hander Jim "Mudcat" Grant also moved to LA in the trade with the Twins getting catcher John Roseboro and relief pitcher Ron Perranoski and Bob Miller.

Pittsburgh and Detroit swapped a pair of right-handers with Dennis Ribant moving to the Tigers and Dave Wickersham going to the Pirates.

Cleveland picked up veteran knuckleball pitcher Eddie Fisher from Baltimore in exchange for left-hander John O'Donoghue. The Indians also acquired minor league pitcher Bob Scott and outfielder John Scruggs from the Orioles and sent shortstop Gordon Lund to the Baltimore organization.

Versalles was the biggest name traded. The 27-year-old shortstop was the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1965 when the Twins won the pennant. He batted .273 that year, leading the league in doubles, triples and runs scored.

He slipped to .249 the following season and dropped to .200 last year when he made 30 errors.

Grant, like Versalles, played a major role in the Twins' 1965 pennant victory but fell off the last two seasons.

He was 21-7 in 1965 and beat the Dodgers twice in the World Series. Then he slipped to 13-13 in 1966 and was 5-6 last season. Grant was the forgotten man of the Minnesota staff last year, pitching only 95 innings, almost none of them in the stretch drive.

Cal Ermer, manager of the Twins, said Roseboro would replace Earl Battey, who has retired, as the Twins' No. 1 catcher, and that Perranoski and Miller would remain relief specialists with Minnesota.

Roseboro, 34, batted .273 with the Dodgers last year. He has been the team's No. 1 catcher since the club moved to Los Angeles in 1957 and his departure leaves pitcher Don Drysdale as the only player remaining from the team that left Brooklyn.

Perranoski was 6-7 with a 2.46 earned run average in 70 games and Miller 2-9 with a 4.39 ERA in 52 games with the Dodgers last season.

Ribant was 9-8 with the Pirates last year, mostly as a starter. He had a 4.08 ERA in 172 innings.

Wickersham, 32, was 4-5 with a 2.75 ERA as a reliever with the Tigers. He returns to the Pittsburgh organization where he spent his minor league career from 1955-1959.

Fisher is also a reliever and was 4-3 and 46 games with the Orioles. O'Donoghue was 8-9 with a 3.23 ERA starting and relieving for the Indians.

Buccos Draft Chuck Hiller from Minors

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Fourteen major league clubs picked off 23 minor league players, including the home run champion of the Mexican League, in the annual draft grab bag yesterday for a total of $524,000.

Baltimore opened up its roster by selling outfielder Sam Bowers conditionally to the Washington Senators for a look-see in spring training. The Orioles then drafted Elrod Hendricks, a 27-year-old catcher who hit 41 homers, batted in 112 runs and averaged .316 with Jacksonville in the Mexican League last summer. He was taken off the roster of Seattle of the Pacific Coast League, a California Angels farm.

Joe DiMaggio, his first appearance at a baseball gathering in his new capacity as executive vice-president of the Oakland A's, made the first draft pick. He selected Edzprague, a right-handed relief pitcher from Tulsa, a St. Louis farm, who had an 11-7 record at Modesto in the California League.

The Athletics were hit hard, losing four players from their Vancouver farm of the Pacific Coast League. The Yankees took outfielder Kosco, once a $50,000 bonus baby at Detroit. Cleveland obtained catcher Suarez. Minnesota took Jim Holt, a young outfielder who played at Peninsula in the Carolina League and hit .312. Houston surprised the A's by grabbing Skip Lockwood, who is being converted from a shortstop to a pitcher in Arizona. Lockwood reportedly once was paid a $90,000 bonus.

The Cubs were very active, taking Ramon Hernandez, a left-handed relief pitcher from Atlanta's Richmond farm of the International League; Joe Arcia, a shortstop, and Bill Plummer, a catcher, from St. Louis' Tulsa club of the Pacific Coast League. Hernandez was 0-2 with the Braves. Arcia hit .219 and Plummer batted .234 at Modesto, Calif.

Houston's three picks were shortstop Ted Martinez from the Mets' Jacksonville farm of the International League; Joe Moeller, a 24-year-old right-handed pitcher who has been up and down with the Los Angeles Dodgers several years and was on their Spokane roster; and Lockwood from Vancouver.

The Mets took Clyde Mashore, a highly-regarded young outfielder from Cincinnati's Buffalo club where he hit .240; and outfielder Don Wilkinson from the Angels. Seattle list. He hit .279 at El Paso in the Texas League.

Kosco was on many draft lists and the Yanks considered themselves fortunate to have acquired him. The A's bought Kosco from Minnesota for $25,000 in the fall and took a chance on him on the Vancouver list. The Ynaks liked his .297 average at Denver and picked him up for duty at the stadium. The Yanks also selected Ken Poulsen, a young third baseman from the Boston organization at Toronto, and right-handed pitcher Dale Spier from Phoenix, a San Francisco farm.

Atlanta picked up Valdespino, who has been with the Twins but was on the Denver farm roster. The speedy little outfielder hit .165 for the Twins. The Braves also got an $8,000 pick in first year man Bob Castiglione, a 25-pitcher at Denver, the Twins system. The Twins themselves drafted catcher Bruce Look from Spokane as a possible No. 1 receiver, and outfielder Holt from Vancouver.

Buzzie Bavasi of Los Angeles, pulled an unusual deal. A year ago he bought pitcher Vicente Romo from Mexico City for $30,000 only to find he belonged to Cleveland. He got his money back and yesterday drafted Romo, a 34-1 pitcher, off Cleveland's Portland farm list for $25,000.

Washington selected catcher Bryan from the Yanks' Syracuse farm. Pittsburgh took 32-year-old utility infielder Hiller from the Phils' San Diego outlet and Cincinnati picked 31-year-old Schaffer from the same club.

Boston's selection was Spriggs, a speedy outfielder from the Pirates' Columbus farm who once led the International League in stolen bases. There were seven pitchers, six catchers, six outfielders and four infielders in the draft.

Last year the majors drafted 23 for $422,000, picking nine first year men.

Gary Beban Wins Heisman Trophy

Simpson, Keyes and Csonka Trail Uclan

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Gary Beban, UCLA's record-setting quarterback, yesterday won the Heisman Trophy, annually awarded to the outstanding player in college football.

Beban polled 369 first-place ballots and 1,968 total points to beat O. J. Simpson, Southern California's dynamic running back. Beban will receive the Heisman Trophy, the 33rd, on Dec. 7 at the Downtown A.C. Simpson finished with 261 first-place votes and 1,722 total points. Simpson, a junior, was the nation's leading rusher.

Leroy Keyes of Purdue, who led the nation in scoring, finished third with 278 first-place votes and 1,366 points.

"I have mixed emotions over winning," said Beban in a telephone interview. "I'm surprised at the choice because there were three fine candidates. Of course, I'm very grateful."

Beban said that his joy at winning the award was tempered somewhat by UCLA's tough 21-20 loss to Southern Cal, which clinched a rose bowl berth for Simpson's Trojans.

"That game was clearly the climax of three years for all the seniors on our squad," Beban said. "We put all we had into it but wound up one point short. We were proud but disappointed."

Beban, Simpson and Keyes dominated the balloting, with fourth place going to fullback Larry Csonka of Syracuse, who had 136 points.

Next came Kim Hammond of Florida State, followed by Bob Johnson of Tennessee, Granville Liggins of Oklahoma, Dewey Warren of Tennessee, Wayne Meylan of Nebraska, Terry Hanratty of Notre Dame, Dennis Homan of Alabama, Paul Toscano of Wyoming, Ted Hendricks of Miami of Florida and Chris Gilbert of Texas.

Trojans College Champs; Penn St. Finishes 10th

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Coach John McKay was really not floored yesterday when advised that his University of Southern California Trojans had been named the national collegiate champion football team for 1967 in the final poll conducted by The Associated Press.

"But of course I'm very tickled. I was worried," said McKay, a humorous fellow. One never is sure whether John is putting one on.

"No, really," he continued. "You never know about those votes until they're in."

National championships are treasured matters and this is the second for McKay since he took over at Southern Cal in 1960. His 1962 team was unbeaten in 10 regular season games and defeated Wisconsin in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

And it is Rose Bowl time again for McKay and the Trojans, whose only setback in 1967 was a 3-0 defeat by Oregon State in a mud battle at Corvallis.

Indiana's Cinderella kids are coming west to represent the Big Ten in the New Year's Day classic at Pasadena. It is the first Rose Bowl engagement for the Hoosiers.

McKay is well aware of the psychological emotion Indiana can generate for this game. A team that won only one contest in 1966, the Hoosiers lost only one this season and climaxed the schedule with an upset triumph last Saturday over highly favored Purdue.

McKay will re-assemble his big troops for the first bowl practice Dec. 12. All McKay has to do to fire up the team is to remind them that surprises can — and do — happen in football.

The final Associated Press poll bore out what many had predicted before the season began — divided in half. It was felt that USC and UCLA would fight it out for the Pacific-8 title and possibly the national championship.

Southern Cal decided part of the issue by defeating UCLA, 21-20, Nov. 18, and Syracuse knocked UCLA clear out of the top 10 last Saturday, 32-14. Besides Indiana, Penn State is the only new member of the Top Ten. It was a last-chance situation for the Gator Bowl-bound Nittany Lions, who had not been in the Top Ten before at any time this season.

'East Coming Back,' Says Happy Paterno

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Coach Joe Paterno of Penn State accepted congratulations yesterday on one of the year's finest coaching jobs while his Nittany Lions celebrated the end of their season-long march to the top ten.

"I'm awfully glad for the kids," Paterno said. "They've worked hard and now they're going to be recognized as one of the outstanding teams in the country."

Penn State, 8-2, ranked 10th in The Associated Press' season-ending poll, the first finish by an Eastern team in the elite group since 1963 and Penn State's first since 1962.

Ortiz Voted Fighter of Year Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Carlos Ortiz, the world lightweight champion and one of the great little fighters of this era, was named yesterday as Fighter of the Year by the Boxing Writers Association. He will receive the Edward J. Neil Memorial Award.

The 31-year-old Puerto Rican-born New Yorker, a two-time holder of the 135-pound division crown, and a former junior welterweight champion, has defended successfully the lightweight title five times in the last two years.

A master boxer and a strong puncher, Ortiz trounced Panama's flashy Ismael Laguna in 15 rounds at New York's Shea Stadium last Aug. 16. Earlier in the year he stopped Sugar Ramos in the fourth round.

He has an 11-1 record in lightweight title fights over a six year span. Over-all his record is 51-5-1.

Ortiz first won the lightweight title from Joe Brown at Las Vegas, April 21, 1962. He lost it to Laguna in Panama City on a 15-round decision on April 10, 1965, and won it back the same way seven months later at San Juan, Puerto Rico.

He will receive the award at the Boxing Writers' annual dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria on Jan. 14.

The Neil Trophy is named in honor of The Associated Press sports writer who was killed while reporting the Spanish Civil War.

Dick Tiger, the light heavyweight champion from Nigeria, received the award for 1966.

Three Repeaters On Little All-America

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK (AP) — Half-backs Carl Garrett of New Mexico Highlands and Don Hass of Montana State and end De Wayne Nix of Texas A&I have been named to the 1967 Little All-America football team for the second straight year.

The three are the only repeaters on the squad selected yesterday following a national survey of coaches and newsmen.

Hass is a senior, but Garrett and Nix are juniors and have a chance to equal the record of Eddie LeBaron of the College of the Pacific, the only player to make the team three straight years. LeBaron was named in 1947, 1948 and 1949 before moving into a successful Pro career.

Charles "Chuck" McKee of Lawrence was chosen for the quarterback spot over Bob Toledo of San Francisco State and Gary Sandbo of Augustana College of Sioux Falls, S.D. McKee is the only athlete in the past 20 years for whom unsolicited recommendations were received from all coaches whose teams he opposed.

Toledo, the total offense leader among small-college players, was picked for the second team while Sandbo received honorable mention.

Lee White of Weber, rated by some as the best college fullback in the country, completes the backfield. He is a hard-running, 6-foot-4, 232 pounder.

Victor Bender of Northeast Louisiana State was the choice at center while Haven Moses of San Diego State was the other pick at end. Moses was one of the big reasons the Aztecs have finished on top of The Associated Press' small-college poll the past two seasons.

John Gjoistein of Wagner and Eddie Joyner of Lenoir Rhyne were picked for tackles and Sperguson Wynn of Lamar Tech and Leland Hughes of Delta State for the guards on the first offensive team.

On the defense team, William Hanna of Northern Arizona and Jeff Queen of Morgan State were chosen at the end positions. Claude Humphrey of Tennessee A&I and Dave Williams of Fairmont, W.Va., were named the tacklers.

Ray Peterson of Northern Iowa University was selected for the middle guard. The linebackers positions went to Robert Beers of Montana, Dave Ragusa of Rochester and Richard Jaeger of Gustavus Adolphus.

The defense halfbacks are Major Hazelton of Florida A&M and Steve Dockery of Maryville, Tenn. while the safety position went to Robert Wilbanks of the University of Texas at Arlington.

Dragon Five Turns Close Contest Into 73-55 Runaway over Eagles

REBOUND BATTLE

Warren's Mike Hackett (41) and George Nelson (34) of Youngsville battle for a rebound in last night's game on the Eagles' court. The host team played Blue and White even for the first half, but the Dragons opened up a big third quarter lead and coasted to a 73-55 victory in their opener. Youngsville is now 1-1. (Photo by Mahan)

By DAN PRATZ

YOUNGVILLE — The Youngsville Eagles played a tight first half of basketball with cross county foe Warren here last night, but failed to contain the tough Blue and White shooting and fell 73-55.

First game jitters plagued the Dragons throughout the initial half as they recorded 14 fouls. The Eagles fought hard and managed to stay within four points as the first half ended with Warren leading 34-30.

Height was also an asset to the Blue and White as they cleared the backboards with ease. Rick Nasman led the field with ten rebounds and was closely paced by Mike Hackett with nine.

The game's high scorer was Gary Wood as he tallied five goals and six free throws for a total of 16 points for the night. Dan Krumm was high for the Dragons with only three baskets, but he sank eight of his nine gifts at the foul line for 14 points.

The Dragons opened the game by sinking their first basket within ten seconds of the start of the clock. The Eagles quickly retaliated and tied the game up. The first quarter lead bounced from team to team until midway through the stanza when the Dragons took a 12-6 lead. The determined Eagles held the Blue and White to only three baskets, while they managed to sink six, ending the quarter in a 18-18 tie.

Plagued by fouls in the second quarter, the Dragons found it hard to move ahead. However, the Dragons took a four point lead at the beginning of the quarter and managed to come out ahead 34-30 when the buzzer rang.

A fantastic comeback in the second half gave the Eagles quite a surprise and the third quarter saw the Dragons outscore the Red and White by 13 points. Third quarter action also netted additional bad luck for the Eagles as starter Marty Yucha received a broken wrist while struggling on the floor for possession of a loose ball.

The rough play began to hurt the Dragons late in the third quarter as Randy Jones fouled out with more than three minutes left in the quarter, and a minute later Ed O'Neil was also benched on fouls.

A mistake in the fourth quarter sent Eagle Denny Walton out of the game as he collected his allotment of fouls with six minutes yet to play. Two consecutive fouls hurt Krumm and he left the game with four minutes of play left.

Fouling out became the rule of the game as three more cagers were benched before the game ended. Dragons Dave Cobb and Rick Nasman left the scene, as did Eagle George Nelson.

Action was again plagued by fouls as the Red and White desperately tried to move ahead. However, the twenty-point lead the Dragons piled up with only four minutes of play left was too much for the Eagles to overcome.

Warren's junior varsity whipped the Little Eagles in the preliminary by a 50-30 score.

The Eagles are again in action on the hardwood Friday night when they host Cochran. The Dragons will take the rest of the week off to iron things out and host Bradford next Tuesday.

Speedy flavoring trick for new Refrigerated Quick Butter Layered Loaves: Spread the loaves before baking with 1½ teaspoons soft butter, sprinkle with a flavored salt.

any time during the holidays. Keep new Pillsbury Refrigerated Apple Cinnamon Streusel or Cherry Streusel Coffee Time Pastries on hand. Everything you need to turn out these handsome, delicious goodies comes right in the packages — and either can turn a cup of coffee into an occasion! Especially nice for holiday brunches.

Another holiday brunch or Christmas breakfast idea — top Pillsbury Cinnamon Streusel, Apple Cinnamon, Blueberry or new Sour Cream Coffee Cake Mix batter with ¼ cup slivered almonds and bake as directed.

brunch or breakfast by serving Pillsbury Pancakes or Pancakes. Whip up a special topping like Honey Butter: Cream ¼ cup butter until light and fluffy. Gradually add ¾ cup honey, beating until well blended.

"Something Different" Freezer Dessert Mix makes a handsome ending to any holiday meal — especially if its filling and crumbs are layered alternately and frozen in parfait glasses hardy enough to spend some time in the freezer. For added appeal and fun, tie a ribbon and a sprig of holly or mistletoe to the parfait glass stems.

sin 'n Spice, Date, Nut or Banana — all the Pillsbury quickbread mixes make loaves that are perfect to keep on hand for unexpected company. Wrap cooled breads in foil and store in the refrigerator — they'll stay moist up to a week.

Bake a Pillsbury quickbread mix — perhaps new Cranberry Bread Mix — in four greased and floured soup cans for 35 to 40 minutes for little rounds that are perfect to slice and serve with spreads for a holiday open house. Whipped cream cheese flavored with grated lemon or orange rind, instant coffee or your favorite spices makes a wonderful spread to accompany the quickbreads.

Delightful holiday doings with Pillsbury Cake and Cookie Decorators — handy decorative icing in aerosol cans — might include:

— accenting the lines of a fruit-cake baked in a mold with red and or green Decorator icing.

— touching chocolate mint patties with pink or yellow Decorator "rosebuds", then tilting seven or eight of the patties around the edge of a pretty chiffon pie, perhaps at a shower for a holiday bride.

— adding leaves, flowers, stars, ruffles atop homemade or "store-bought" candies — pretty and good!

— making tree ornaments of doughnuts with Decorator icing designs, candles, colored sugars — and a loop of ribbon as hanger. Let the icing set up for an hour or so before hanging the "ornament" on the tree.

OH, MY ACHING BACK

Nagging backache, headache and muscular aches and pains may come on with over-exertion, emotional upsets, or everyday stress and strain. Stewardess Files $6 Million Suit Against Detective Agency

By KAY BARTLETT
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A 28-year-old former stewardess Tuesday filed a $6-million suit against a private detective agency and two of its agents, claiming she was a victim of a "master plan" to weed out senior stewardesses in favor of fresh, young faces.

Carmeline Green, an attractive brunette who has been flying for National Airlines for eight years, said two agents of the Wackenhut Corp. reported to the company that she was drunk, that she drank during a flight from Los Angeles to Miami and that she spent an excessive amount of time in the cockpit.

Miss Greene, who was fired July 17, six days after the flight, said in her suit that the charges are untrue and that the agents, Julius Deltch and Dan Sifford, "falsely, wrongly and maliciously" wrote a report that they "knew at the time was false."

The Circuit Court suit said her firing was "part of a master plan and strategy of the Wackenhut Corp. to see that each and all of the senior stewardesses could be similarly discharged."

National Airlines said it "would not dignify the report with a comment" when told about the "master plan" to ditch the older and better-paid girls.

However, a spokesman for the firm said Wackenhut agents had been employed for security reasons for 10 or 11 years. He added that security, "in a broad sense, extended to riding on the planes and checking the welfare of the passengers."

Teacher's Defender Dies

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Primitivo Garcia, who defended his night school teacher against a gang of purse snatching hoodlums two weeks ago, died yesterday of the effects of a bullet wound.

Hundreds of persons donated to a fund to pay hospital care for the 23-year-old Mexican national who was studying at night to become a naturalized citizen.

Garcia had hovered between life and death for several days after seemingly making a slow recovery from the bullet wound. He died of peritonitis, the hospital reported, while emergency surgery was being done.

Kansas Citizens had taken the young Mexican national to their hearts when they read of his stout defense of his teacher, and had subscribed more than $11,000 and donated blood in an effort to save his life.

Garcia and his brother, Alfredo, had just left an English class on Nov. 15 in which they had enrolled to help them study for their citizenship papers.

ASCS Groups Meet December 1

Members of Warren County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Community Committees meet Friday, December 1, 1967, at Warren Grange for a seminar on 1968 U.S. Dept. of Agriculture programs. The meeting will continue from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Percy Marston, farmer field man, from Clarion Northwest Pennsylvania ASCS headquarters, will conduct the sessions. Warren County ASCS office manager Gerald Bensink explains that emphasis will be on the 1968 feed grain programs. Also under discussion will be new responsibilities assigned to community committeemen, who administer the programs. The meeting is under auspices of the state ASCS committee in Harrisburg.

Soil Sampling Gets Started

Soil samples from farms all over Warren County are coming in at the Warren County Extension office in the Court House. This, explains County Agent Bernie Winger, is a part of the annual soils testing program in Warren County and all of Pennsylvania. Samples are taken to the soil testing laboratory at Pennsylvania State University for complete soil analysis. From results, recommendations are made for lime and fertilizer applications for each soil type, for maximum productivity and soil development. "This is routine for alert farmers," extension officials observe. Some farms submit as many as four to eight individual samples, representing different areas in their land.

Predicts State Will Bar Compulsory Union Membership

In a hard-hitting talk by James Scott II, president Pennsylvanians for Right to Work, before Warren Rotary Club Monday noon, it was predicted Pennsylvania will enact a right-to-work law barring compulsory union membership "as soon as the demand from the people becomes clear." He insisted the day is not far off, citing press reports on a study of union member attitudes made for AFL-CIO after 1966 elections. The Unions' own poll, according to Scott, showed the drive of AFL-CIO and Teamsters in the 89th Congress to repeal Section 14 (b) of the Taft-Hartley Act, authorizing states to pass right-to-work laws, got practically no support from union members polled. The union-sponsored poll also showed many members disagree with AFL-CIO political endorsements and legislative goals. This study, which Scott said was kept secret for some time by union officials, is a confirmation of "what Pennsylvanians for Right to Work has been saying for some time: union officials are out of touch with the rank and file and have been using compulsory dues dollars to promote social and economic legislation which a large percentage of the membership does not want." Scott declared: "The people of this state cannot go on looking the other way while our wage earners are forced to join unions against their will as the price for being permitted to work at their jobs". He explains a right-to-work law, such as those now in existence in 19 states, provides that no individual may be deprived of his job either because he does, or does not, belong to a labor union."

In addition to eliminating the present monopoly enjoyed by union officials, denying millions of our citizens their constitutional rights, Scott cited beneficial effect of right-to-work law upon the economy of Pennsylvania: "Primary benefit of a right-to-work law in Pennsylvania will be the restoration of individual freedom of choice to Pennsylvania workers."

A major by-product he adds is its beneficial effect on the economy. Outlawing compulsory union membership will provide a healthier economic climate in which Pennsylvanians can live and do business. "It will promote better management relations, making Pennsylvania more attractive to new industry, as well as helping to keep our present industry in thriving condition."

He quoted Secretary of Labor Wirtz's figures given during a Congressional hearing on repeal of Taft-Hartley Section 14 (b). During 1952-1964 Pennsylvania led the nation in average time lost due to strikes, having twice as much time lost as the average for all 50 states, and nearly four times as much time lost as average figure for the 19 right-to-work states.

During 1948-1964, manufacturing jobs in the U.S. increased by 1,700,000. 1,000,000 of that total was created in the 19 right-to-work states. Yet, according to Wirtz's figures, during the same period Pennsylvania suffered loss of 135,000 jobs, second only in the U.S. to New York's 178,000 jobs loss.

Pennsylvanians for Right to Work, says Scott, was organized in 1962 by a coalition of employers and employees with one purpose—to make union membership voluntary. It is stressed the organization is not opposed to unions and collective bargaining, but rather is "anti-compulsion."

Summing up, Scott stressed three points:

1. No American is truly free if he is denied his basic right to join or refrain from joining a union, according to his own wishes.

2. No injustice is done to a union by requiring it to obtain its members by voluntary persuasion, just as churches and other voluntary organizations of free men obtain their members.

3. No good union needs compulsory membership power to obtain members, and certainly no bad union deserves it.

Scott is a former Captain in the U.S. Navy, retired after 30 years active service. He is a graduate of U.S. Naval Academy and veteran of combat service in World War II and Korea. He was introduced by Dr. Jack Roop.

Guests at Monday's Rotary meeting were Barry Epstein, new executive director of Warren Chamber of Commerce, and Dick Betz.

Members signed up for service for Salvation Army bell ringers for Friday, December 15, from noon until 9 p.m.

Kickbusch Takes Over Timber Management Post With ANF

William Kickbusch, timber management and wild life specialist, has assumed his new post with Allegheny National Forest. He succeeds Paul Sundheimer, who is enroute to Colombia, South America, where he will conduct forestry work under the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Kickbusch arrived Saturday, with his family, from Ironwood, Michigan, where he has served since 1961 as timber management staff specialist on the Ottawa National Forest.

Unfortunately, their household goods have been delayed on the way, so they cannot occupy their residence at 102 Madison ave., corner South st. Total occupancy of local motel and hotel accommodations by hunters on opening days of deer season has complicated their housing problem.

William Kickbusch and his wife Myla (Chapin) Kickbusch, have three children: Kathy 9, Lisa 2 and Scott 10 months.

Kickbusch's home town is Iron Mountain, Michigan, in the upper peninsula. After graduation from Michigan State University in 1952, majoring in forestry, he served in the United States Air Force in 1952 and 1954, as an aerial photo interpreter.

Out of the service, he began working with the U. S. Forest Service as a forester on the Superior National Forest at Isle Royale, Minnesota, in 1954. In 1955 he was promoted to Chequamegon National Forest, Washburn, Wisconsin, as assistant ranger. In 1958 he was again promoted to district ranger on the Mark Twain National Forest, at Van Buren, Missouri. In 1961 he was assigned to Ottawa National Forest, Ironwood, Michigan, as timber management staff specialist.

The Kickbusch's made a brief trip to Warren in October, locating a place to live. Kickbusch reports that when they left Ironwood, Michigan November 20, there were 63 inches of snow, and it was still snowing.

Police went to the home and took both the husband and Mrs. Romesberg to Union City Hospital where the husband underwent surgery Saturday for removal of two slugs, one from his left forearm and one from his left thigh. The third shot was deflected by a hunting knife he had strapped to his waist.

Mrs. Romesberg, who was in a state of shock, was also admitted to the hospital. She recovered sufficiently to be released Monday.

Charged With Bomb Call

BROOKVILLE — A Brookville area youth is awaiting court action in Jefferson County on a charge of giving authorities false information concerning bombs.

James N. Stratiff, 18, of RD 3, Brookville, was arrested Saturday by state police detectives headquartered at Punxsutawney and charged with giving false information concerning bombs.

According to police, Stratiff was the one who called Brookville Area Senior High School authorities at 10:57 a. m. Nov. 6 and told them there was a bomb in the school auditorium.

Upon arraignment the defendant waived hearing for court and was released after posting $500 bail.

Auto Stolen

An automobile, stolen from in front of its owners home in Youngsville between 11 p.m. Sunday and 5 a.m. Monday, has been recovered by Youngsville Borough Police.

Police said they found the car, owned by Robert Mourer, 4th st., Youngsville, in Chambers Valley. Several juveniles have been referred to juvenile authorities in connection with the robbery.

WILLIAM KICKBUSCH

Area Woman Jailed On Assault Charge

MEADVILLE — Mrs. Thelma Romesberg, 56, RD 2, Union City, was committed to Crawford County jail in default of $5,000 bail Monday following her arraignment before Bloomfield township Peace Justice Glen E. Seidler on a charge of assault with intent to kill her husband, Gerald, 58.

Seidler set tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. as time for hearing on the charge.

Township police said Mrs. Romesberg called on the telephone after she fired three shots from a .32 caliber pistol at her husband, following an argument at 7:30 p. m. Friday at their home.

Police went to the home and took both the husband and Mrs. Romesberg to Union City Hospital where the husband underwent surgery Saturday for removal of two slugs, one from his left forearm and one from his left thigh. The third shot was deflected by a hunting knife he had strapped to his waist.

Local School One of Ten To Host Foreign Educator

The Warren County School District has been notified that it has been selected as one of ten school districts in the Commonwealth to serve as the host district for a foreign educator under the Mutual Educational and Cultural Exchange Act of 1961 — the Fulbright-Hays Act.

Reverend Basil de Lastic will visit the school district from January 8 through February 16, 1968 for the purpose of observing certain operational practices employed by the district. Reverend de Lastic is a native of India, thirty-seven years of age, and has an excellent command of the English language. He has been awarded a doctoral degree in the field of theology and is primarily interested in the areas of administration and supervision on the secondary level. He is currently principal of St. Anthony's Higher Secondary School, Calcutta, India. This school has an enrollment of 1120 boys. During his visit with the school district, Reverend de Lastic will be assigned to the Warren Area High School but will visit all secondary schools in the district.

The Warren County School District is indeed fortunate in having been chosen to host Reverend de Lastic's visit. Reverend de Lastic will be afforded the opportunity to observe all aspects of secondary administrative and supervisory procedures and techniques as practiced in the secondary schools of the Warren County School District. In return, the school district will benefit from Reverend de Lastic's visit as it can only add to the breadth and depth of the education of the employees and students of the district.

Reverend de Lastic's visit is sponsored by the Teacher Development Program which is part of the federally financed International Educational and Cultural Exchange Program of the United States Department of State. This Teacher Development Program is administered by the United States Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Washington, D.C. The program provides opportunities for qualified foreign educators and officials of Ministries of Education to gain a knowledge of education in the United States.

'Heartbreak Hotel' Is Saddest Place In Post Office

The saddest place in the post office is "Heartbreak Hotel" the day after Christmas. "Heartbreak Hotel" is the residence of cards, letters, and gifts that couldn't be delivered because of illegible addresses, no addresses at all, or poorly packed parcels from which the address labels or outer wrappings were separated.

Postmaster Frank A. Fago noted yesterday that millions of such items unnecessarily wind up in "Heartbreak Hotel" and gave mailers advice on how to avoid such seasonal sorrows. Always write or print addresses carefully and use ZIP Codes. If you have trouble reading the address, the people at the post office will have the same problem.

Use of first class postage on greeting cards will make sure that your mail is forwarded if the recipient has moved. Mail will be returned to you if poorly addressed or there is no forwarding address. This is one reason for using the special five cent Christmas stamp. Cards sent by third-class mail which cannot be delivered wind up in the dead letter office, one of the busiest corners of "Heartbreak Hotel."

Wrap your packages neat and well. A loose piece of wrapping may get caught and ripped. Pad your gifts securely so there is no rattling and there is sufficient support for other packages. The sack carrying your

Forester Kelley In Philadelphia

Allegheny National Forest Supervisor Lee Kelley is in Philadelphia where he is attending a meeting of the steering committee for the Northeast Fire Compact, of which he is a member.

Under this compact, the states of the northeastern area band together in a mutual-aid program, primarily for control of forest fires. The program provides for inter-state mutual aid with both men and equipment, between various federal and state agencies.

Kelley will be at Pennsylvania State University Wednesday and Thursday, interviewing forestry students who will graduate this coming spring.

He will be joined there by Thurman Trooper, regional personnel officer from U.S. Forest Service's Eastern Region headquarters in Milwaukee. Their mission is to recruit foresters for the Allegheny Forest.

cup may also have two or three bowling balls riding on top of it.

A card or a piece of paper inside the package carrying your name and address and that of the person to whom the parcel is addressed will insure delivery in case the wrapping comes loose. A list of the contents will help the "rewrap" postal clerks in the event your package is poorly wrapped and bursts.

Place the address and the return address on only one side of the parcel. Some people will repeat the address on more than one side. Postal employees who are working at top speed to meet transportation connections for mail do not have time to check the other sides and assume that postage is due.

Mail early. This gives the post office plenty of time to deliver your mail before the holiday.

Nudists Help

Associated Press in Albuquerque, N.M., report that the nearby Yucca colony's nudists threw on some clothes to help volunteer firemen fight a brush fire that threatened the nudists' $15,000 clubhouse. One fireman said the five-acre blaze was under control before he realized he was in a nudist colony. They were wearing pants, he said.

JOHN E. EBERLY, Warren attorney, will be the guest speaker at the 2 o'clock meeting on Monday afternoon, December 4th, of the Woman's Club Community Service Department. Mr. Eberly, who served a one year tour of duty as a member of the U. S. government's Psychological Warfare Unit in Vietnam — from October 1964 to October 1965 — will have that country for his topic. The color slides he will use in illustration were taken by himself. A Tea will be served following the program, with Mrs. Lloyd Smith the hostess.

ANOTHER ONE OF THOSE SHEFFIELD VARIETY SHOWS is about to make its bow. This is the now famous — in this area anyway — annual stage show sponsored by the Sheffield Parent Teachers Association and featuring an entire cast of PTA members, one of the highlights of which is the all-male chorus line (such singing and dancing, such talents galore). This year the show has been tabbed "International Show Time." This, the third annual variety show, promises to top even its very popular predecessors. Curtain time in the auditorium of the Sheffield High School tomorrow night and Friday is 7:30 — Tickets at $1 will be sold at the door, or, may be obtained from any member of the PTA.

THE RECENT MARRIAGE OF MARCIA SUSAN TUTTLE and James Peter Nelson has been announced by the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. James Tuttle of 118 Grant street. The groom is the son of the Emory Nelsons of 13 Conewango Place. The Rev. Bertel Erling officiated at the double ring rites in the Zion Lutheran Church, Frewsburg, N. Y., and attending the bride and groom were Mrs. Richard McChesney and Daniel Nelson. The young couple are both 1967 graduates of Warren Area High School; Mrs. Nelson is now a New Penn Beauty School student, and her husband is employed at Nelson and Ellberg. They reside at Riverview Estates. Assisting at the reception in the church parlor following the wedding service were Mrs. Ernest Ellberg, Mrs. Allen Tuttle, Mrs. Billie Colter and Mrs. Thomas Lobdell.

A RECEPTION HONORING THE SIXTIETH ANNIVERSARY of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Brown of Youngville will be held this Sunday, December 3rd. Hosted by the children of the couple, it will take place from 3 to 5 o'clock in the St. Francis of Assisi Parish House, Youngville. All relatives, neighbors and friends are extended an invitation to attend.

MINIATURES: The Sugar Grove Pre-School Mothers Group is meeting tomorrow evening at 8 in the elementary school's library. Bring unwrapped good, used clothing and toys; or wrapped white elephants for auction.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why, oh why, would a woman hang on to a man who doesn't want her? Greg has told me he loves me more than anything in the world. He says his wife means nothing to him and they have lived as brother and sister for three years. I believe him. He claims if it weren't for his children he would have left her years ago, even if he had not met me. I've written registered letters to his wife. I've sent her telegrams. No response. I've called her on the telephone and her stock answer is: "I have nothing to say to you. Talk to Greg." Then she hangs up. She is a selfish, unfeeling woman who is clinging to the man I love just because she doesn't want us to be happy. Greg has told me repeatedly that he will marry me when the time is right.

Ann, I want to go to her home and talk to her in person. Then she will HAVE to listen to me. I've been going with Greg for three years and I'm sick and tired of waiting. Please tell me I'm right in wanting to get it settled NOW. — RSVP

DEAR R: Your story is such a tired one I'm almost ashamed to print it. You are not only wrong but stupid if you think a talk with Greg's wife will settle anything. Your problem is not with her — it's with him, Dummy. Greg doesn't want to marry you — and why should he? He has everything just the way he wants it — the respectable facade provided by a home and children plus a side dish for entertainment. This arrangement is a lot neater and much cheaper for him than a divorce.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have two good-looking sons. They are 20 and 22 years of age. Both boys have fine jobs. They live at home, pay no room and board, drive new cars, and they dress like English royalty with white shirts and cuff links. The incoming phone calls from the girls run me crazy. I feel like an answering service. I am writing to ask you to please tell young, unmarried people to save some of their paycheck every week. My husband is a hard worker but we can't put away a dime on account of these boys. They keep mooching money off us and I am getting burned up about it. Please, Ann, straighten them out. Kids listen to you. — LOSING MY TEMPER

DEAR LOSING: "As the twig is bent, so grows the tree." Your twigs were bent to be selfish, irresponsible spenders and I can't pass a miracle that will transform them into feet-on-the-ground citizens by printing a few lines in the paper.

The only thing you can do now is to stop dishing out $$ to these leeches and get tough with them. Insist that each boy give you 15 per cent of his salary for room and board, laundry and telephone service. If they think they can live cheaper elsewhere, invite them to try it.

Confidential to A Wrecked Reputation: No responsible attorney would take your "case" because you have no case. Stop going all over town to track down the origin of the story. All you are doing is keeping the rumor alive. The best defense against gossip is to ignore it and let your performance speak in your behalf.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents... If you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Holiday Charmer

All kinds of styles are shown for big girls for over the holidays; here is a holiday charmer for little girls. In luscious cotton velvet, with a fitted dress with its Little Lord Fauntleroy collar and cuffs really brings out the elfin charm of the young lady.

Gold cuff links add a rich touch to the cuffs and a Garrison huckle is used on the low placed belt.

The dress is in black which, in rich velvet, with the contrast of white on black, isn't as sombre as it would seem, and is quite right for a dress-up occasion.

Hanging Of The Greens

Members and friends of the YWCA are looking forward to this coming Sunday, December 3, when the traditional Hanging of the Greens ceremony will be observed from 3 to 5 o'clock. The theme for this year's observance is "Christmas Brings Joy", and the musical program for the occasion is under the capable direction of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Borg who will be assisted by Mrs. Alan Hearl and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Check. Mr. Carl Sachrich, intern at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, will present the Christmas Gospel. Appropriate carols in which the children actively participate will be an added feature of the afternoon's entertainment. Christmas trees will already be in place in the gymnasium, social rooms and Y-Teen rooms so that all those in the audience may share in "decking the halls." Everyone attending is invited to bring a tree ornament to add to those already on hand. Since the YWCA emphasizes this event on the year's calendar as a family affair, two small trees especially selected for the young children to decorate as they please will be included in the gymnasium, while a 14-foot tree will provide a challenge to the mothers and fathers. In addition there will be a mitten tree on which donors can hang their gifts of mittens, caps, socks and assorted yarns. All such contributions, which amounted to close to one hundred items last year, are sent to the World Service Department of the National YWCA for distribution among children of less fortunate families. All YWCA Clubs will share in the task of decorating the several rooms of the YWCA Activities Building. These groups and their presidents are: All-We-Je Club, Mrs. Cecelia R. Moran; Dessert Club, Mrs. Everett Borg and Mrs. Robert McCurdy, co-chairmen; Garden Club, Mrs. Charles R. Tranter; Varieters Club, Mrs. Douglas C. Smith Jr.; One O'Clock Club, Mrs. Henry Bailey; Y-Teen director, Miss Carolyn J. Schaefer. A committee of "Y" members under the leadership of Mrs. Donald H. Spencer, president of the Association, will be serving refreshments during the decorating of the building.

Marriage Solemnized In Glendale, Arizona

The Glendale Methodist Church, Glendale, Arizona, was the setting at 7 o'clock on the evening of November 18, for the wedding of Miss Sharies Franklin to Roger Dodd. The bride is the daughter of former Sugar Grove residents, Lt. Col. and Mrs. G. E. Franklin, now of 3542 W. Hayward avenue, Glendale, Arizona. The groom is the son of Mrs. Helen Dodd also of Glendale.

The bride had four attendants: Mrs. Howard Bowers, the matron of honor; Miss Susan Franklin and Miss Sally Franklin, the bridesmaids; and Missy Sugar, the flower girl.

Dennis Rich was the best man and ushers were Mike Irving and Mike Bowley. The ring-bearer was Clay Stazenski. The bride was a student at Glendale Community College, and the groom the Orange Coast College and Glendale College. A reception followed the wedding ceremony and was held at the Washington Women's Club. Upon their return from a week's honeymoon at Lake Tahoe, Mr. and Mrs. Dodd are residing in Lancaster, California.

95th Birthday Celebrated

Mrs. Anna Eckman celebrated her 95th birthday on November 24 at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Billquist, 228 Broadhead ave., Jamestown. During the afternoon friends and relatives called to wish her many happy returns. She received many cards, gifts and flowers, also an orchid corsage from her great grandchildren Cindy and Jeffery Ransom. She was honored with a decorated birthday cake. Among the out of town guests were her daughters Mrs. Laura Kern and Mrs. Paul Lindell and husband; also Mr. and Mrs. Byron Lindell and family of Russell and her sister Miss Amanda Peterson of Warren.

Altar Society Plans Day Of Recollection

A Day of Recollection is being scheduled by St. Joseph Altar Society for Wednesday, December 6; all interested women of the parish are invited to participate. The special event will open with a Mass at 5 p.m. in St. Joseph Church, celebrated by the Rev. Father Norman A. Smith, assistant pastor of the church. After Mass there will be a buffet supper served at 6 o'clock in St. Joseph's School auditorium. Joseph Wise will conduct the Day of Recollection program and will be the special speaker.

All reservations are to be in no later than Monday, December 4. They may be made by calling Mrs. Anthony M. Hahn at 723-7508; Mrs. Kenneth E. Haight at 723-8476; or Mrs. Ben Occhuzzo at 723-5926.

Irvinedale PTA Giving Pine Cone Christmas Wreaths

During the business meeting of the Irvinedale PTA, Mrs. Joyce Mauchline, finance chairman, announced that the PTA will give five pine cone wreaths to the lucky ticket holders December 15. Tickets may be purchased from members. Mrs. Mauchline asked that all members have money and ticket stubs in by December 13.

Mrs. Glen Valentine, president, announced the names of the winners of the Christmas candle holders as follows: Mrs. Verna Jordan, Mrs. Chelcie Huber, Mrs. Beverly Lyle and Mrs. Joyce Mauchline. Room attendance awards went to Mrs. Holmes's third grade and Mrs. McCollough's fourth grade because of a tie.

Devotions were in the charge of Mrs. Paul Constable. Mrs. Kenneth Porter was in charge of refreshments. The meeting was turned over to Juan Carlos Monquar, Rotary exchange student from Argentina. The slides and talk on his homeland were very interesting.

Bible Club Movement

Bethel EUB Church was the host for the Bible Club Movement's November meeting on Monday evening. The Rev. Ernest Hook offered the opening prayer. Mrs. May Minser, Warren County missionary, explained the released time classes program in which she teaches. Her talk followed a short period of group singing.

Miss Eleanor Hoffmeister, graduate of Columbia Bible College and missionary to Laos showed slides of the work being done in that country. A question and answer period followed her illustrated talk.

The next meeting will be on December 18, and will be held at the Peoples Church in Sugar Grove.

Q. I bought a bottle of perfume last week that took half my allowance! I thought it would be great then — and now I don't like it. How can you tell if you will like a perfume?

A. "Testing" a perfume can do away with costly trial and error! Almost every place where cologne or perfume is sold has test bottles of the fragrances they display. So try it out first! Spray a little on your wrist and some on a Kleenex tissue. Then go do something else. After an hour or two, sniff the wrist area and your tissue to see if you like the fragrance. If you don't, go back another day and try again. Don't try two the same day or you will confuse the scents. If you do like the perfume after living with it for an hour or so, that's your cue to buy!

Grange News

The Warren County 7th Degree Association meeting was held at Diamond Grange at Tiona with forty-eight present. Preceding the meeting an oyster and vegetable soup dinner was served by the men. The committee chairmen were Robert Jameson, Guy Wilcox and Ralph Rapp with others assisting.

Miss Ida Grace Larson, president, presided and following routine business a special welcome was given to the ten members who took the 7th degree at the National Grange Sessions in Syracuse recently.

The 7th degree members who attended the National Grange Sessions reported on the event. For entertainment Delbert Werle and Miss Ida Grace Larson gave several comedy musical numbers that were performed at the session. Daffy Dictionary was given by several members explaining the meaning of different words. A game called "Bucket Brigade" was played by various members of the group.

Miss Larson concluded the program by showing slides on activities of Warren County Grangers during the past few years and all joined in singing "God Be With You 'Til We Meet Again".

The next meeting will be held by Warren Grange on January 27 with Diamond Grange providing the program.

Reports were heard from the new members of Diamond Grange who traveled to Syracuse, N.Y., to receive the Seventh Degree. Master Ralph Rapp presided at the meeting which was held in the Tiona hall.

Announcements at the meeting included the following: The Diamond Grange Kitchen Band will play for the Golden Agers at the St. Paul Center, Saybrook, on the afternoon of December 12; all secretaries and masters are to meet at the home of Robert Jameson on Thursday, November 30, at 8 p.m.

The meeting was turned over to the lecturer and the candle lighting ceremony was held in which the Lecturer lights the candle and the three graces, master and overseer participated. The chaplain gave the closing prayer.

Doris Malm read "Thanksgiving on the Farm"; Ruth Ristau "Gratitude"; Fern Hahn told of the "First Thanksgiving"; and "Three Kinds of People" was recited by Olive DeGoyler; Margaret Christian read "Mother of Thanksgiving" and the lecturer closed the program with a reading of a Thanksgiving prayer.

The meeting was concluded in the regular form and refreshments were served by Hazel Vesling and Clara Mead.

Ackley Grange is to meet on Friday, December 1, with the Warren County Youth Degree Team conferring the 3rd and 4th Degrees. All granges having candidates are welcome to bring them to this meeting.

It is announced that the annual Christmas party will be held on December 15, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Sears. There will be no business session at this meeting.

The woman who fights with her husband runs some risk of developing rheumatoid arthritis, and the husband is more apt to develop peptic ulcer.

This possibility emerged in national studies directed by Dr. Sidney Cobb of The University of Michigan who discussed it at an American Public Health Association meeting here.

"The data confirm the theory that marital hostility is the key variable, and suggest that this marital hostility contributes to rheumatoid arthritis in the wife via resentment and depression and to the peptic ulcer in the husband via unmet needs for emotional support," he reported.

PREPARES FOR FASHION SHOW

Preparing for their annual Christmas Dinner Party, two members of the Association of College Women, Mrs. Paul Harrington, left, and Mrs. James Potter are shown here previewing the lovely clothes to be shown in the evening's program "Winter and Holiday Fashions" by the Stein Ladies Shop. Dinner will be served at 6:30 in the YWCA Activities Building under the chairmanship of Mrs. Carl R. Burghard. Hostesses are Mrs. Paul Harrington, Miss Judy Finley, Miss Hazel Finley, Mrs. Ronald Firestone and Miss Christine Hurd. All reservations must be in no later than this Friday. (Photo by Mansfield)

The bidding:

Pass 3NT Pass Pass

Opening lead: Four of ♠

An inspired series of defensive maneuvers by West went for naught, when South—the declarer at three no trump—succeeded in diagnosing his opponent's intentions in time to effect appropriate counter-measures.

West opened the four of hearts, the king was played from dummy and East followed suit with the three. A diamond was led at trick two and South put up the jack to dislodge West's king.

It appeared to the latter that there was no future in the heart suit, since it would take too long to establish. East's play of the three of hearts at trick one, clearly indicated a lack of interest in that suit, and South was, therefore, marked with possession of both the ace and queen. If he had the king of clubs as well, which seemed probable, then 10 tricks would be available as soon as West's diamond stoppers were gone.

The only hope for the defense appeared to lie in the spade suit. If East held the jack of spades, a shift in that direction might prove profitable. West accordingly led the queen of spades at trick three. Observe that, if South puts up the king from dummy, the defense can cash three spade tricks, when West gets in with the ace of diamonds to defeat the contract.

Declarer was tuned in on the situation, however, and he played the six of spades from dummy, permitting West to hold the trick. The latter observed that, if he continued with the ace, he would be unable to reach his partner later to cash the long spades. In desperation, he returned the seven.

South was not fooled. He was convinced that West held the ace of spades as part of his opening bid values. The king of spades was, therefore, put up, and held the trick. Diamonds were continued and West was in with the ace. He could do no better than cash the ace of spades to hold South to his contract.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1967

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—The psychologist and the recorder of important events do well in Aries. The last part of this year will have more excitement and call for more patience. Many planets are ruling them.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Follow your intuition, but listen to hints and wise words. Many things will not affect the versatility of your person. Influences cause developments you did not count upon. Greater things come your way.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Gemini people vary in temperament, but they are all supportive and can go to extremes, too. You possess the characteristics of Virgo, and you stress the good traits predominating.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Helpful influences, accentuated by occasional fickleness. Steadfastness and a far-seeing nature are yours. Brain-power is fluctuating at times. Your Moon has as many good activities as diverse ones.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Strong in disposition and activity. Don't let deceit in, as much as you keep the interior out. Combative and yet reasonable at the same time. Avoid rashness and other pleasure-loving.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Make your way steadily. Here Mercury is conflicting with other planets, for instance Gemini and Leo. You greatly stress the things you want and like. Quickness of thinking is yours for pleasure.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—No matter what you plan, indications and confronting tendencies will intervene. You love luxury and are fond of your own. Great ideals and virtues make your spirit noble. You are generous to the unfortunate.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—Professional and scientific endeavors entice this Sign. You can combat the best of them, then settle down to entertaining amusement. You are often short and stocky in build, you often sleep and eat little.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Born with an optimistic outlook, and discreet beyond your age, you nevertheless are cautious and meditative. Fond of quiet thinking, and strong in will power and active and religiously inclined.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Never imitative, unless it is necessary. Temper, temper! Rare success can be yours with alternate reverses. Liberal and willing to be dependent, especially where it requires travel.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Dominating, and easy-going the next moment. You may lack the ambition to get ahead, but you are a good counselor. Don't be easily ruled and often strive for those desired goals.

PIESCES (February 20 to March 20)—While you have an ambitious disposition, you may not attain those high accomplishments. But you are keen, crafty and broad-minded. Many writers, scientific experts, and clergymen in this Sign.

YOU BORN TODAY: War-like in speech, military in bearing, yet sincere of disposition. Also vigorous for the plain man. Perpetual motion and full of untiring power. Don't let thoughtlessness handicap you. You can be both reckless and cautious, and sometimes a combination of both. You have versatility and are fair in purpose. Unusually shrewd at times, and when you are forced to fight opposition you pitch in and do so. Studious and able to branch out in unusual direction also. Prepare for your plans.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

BALLET INJURIES

So much is written about football and skiing accidents that it was refreshing to learn that ballet injuries also are a problem. The most common ballet disabilities are muscle, tendon, and minor ligament strains. As in other sports, the neophyte's injuries are less severe than those of the professional artist.

Ballet is unique in that technique and injuries are closely linked. Few dancers have a perfect physique and minor deviations must be overcome by strengthening the muscles thru a rigid training program. They learn to compensate for physical defects but these imperfections are never overcome and remain a potential hazard, especially when fatigue sets in.

The highly-arched foot, for example, leaves the foot soft and flexible. But beautiful as it may be, this type of foot will not take so much abuse as one with a less pronounced arch that is sturdier and more closely knit. A broad foot with toes of even length can be used indefinitely. Highly-arched feet also have weaker sole muscles which are used when the shape of the foot is altered such as in springing or standing on the toes (pointe).

All ballerinas spend hours at the barre. When standing, the weight of the body is borne on the heads of the first and fifth metatarsals in front and the heel. During rolling, the foot and ankle are easily strained leading to pain along the inner border of the foot and extending up the back of the leg.

When on pointe, the ankle is not protected by muscles and if the foot "sickles" out, the body weight is diverted to the inner side of the foot causing marked stretching of ligaments and muscles that do not have the power to maintain the arch. Sickling-in affects the outer aspect.

Older and professional dancers may have strained the ligaments so often that scar tissue develops leading to a painful narrowing of the surrounding sheath. Other ballet injuries occur but in order to treat them properly, the physician must know something about the different ballet techniques.

TOMORROW: Improved Acne Remedies.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

EQUALIZING SHORT LEG

A reader writes: Has it definitely been established that an adult with back trouble is helped by having a lift put on his shoe? The physician informed him that one leg is shorter than the other.

REPLY:

If one leg is shorter than the other, equalizing with a lift is most helpful.

A practical gift,
That's practically perfect

To some, a practical gift is as welcome as a rainy weekend.
To others, it's just the right answer.

Here's a practical gift, that's practically perfect:
an A&P Gift Certificate.

A handsome certificate with a mailing envelope, available in all A&P stores all year long.

Offered in $5 and $10 denominations, these gift certificates will be honored in any A&P store in the United States.

When you think about it, practically anyone who buys food would welcome it.

And here's the best part—no one can ever get too many of them.
